

Judge Bliss Denounces Foreign Doctrines In Favor of Americanism

Supreme Court Justice in Memorial Day Address Lands National Tenets, Would Have Teachers Take Oaths of Allegiance.

SOLID ATTACK

Other Speakers Attack Modern Social, Political Creeds; WPA Orchestral Concert is Given.

Denunciation of foreign political doctrines rang out in the speech of Supreme Court Justice F. Walter Bliss, principal speaker on the memorial program at the Municipal Auditorium, Sunday night, when he expressed himself as favoring an oath of allegiance to the flag and country by all teachers in American schools, as one step in favor of making American patriotism more secure.

Other speakers, Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman and the Rev. Arthur G. Carroll, pastor of St. James M. E. Church, joined in attacking modern social and political philosophies threatening national defense. The full program of the evening was as follows:

Opening remarks—Morton Finch, chairman of committee.
Presiding chairman—Honorable Conrad J. Heiselman.
Singing, "America," by audience, led by Paul Zucca.
Invocation by Rev. Clarence Brown, President Ministerial Association, Chaplain American Legion.
Patriotic selection by the orchestra.
Recitation, "Lincoln's Gettysburg Address," Gilbert Kraus.
Recitation, "Flanders Field," Miss Rotha Wilson.
Address, Rev. Arthur G. Carroll, of St. James M. E. Church.
Patriotic selection by the orchestra.
Address—Judge F. Walter Bliss.
Singing, "Star Spangled Banner," by audience, led by Paul Zucca.
Benediction, Rev. Arthur G. Cole, Chaplain Pratt Post, G. A. R.
Finale by WPA orchestra which gave a concert to start the proceedings, from 7:30 to 8 o'clock.

"We are assembled here today to honor our patriot dead," said Judge Bliss. "They served with their heroic deeds and virtues. Some now live only in the memory of their heroic deeds and virtues. Some heard the final call while on the field of battle—others long after their strenuous endeavors were finished. But all were patriots alike—all imbued with the same willings to make the supreme sacrifice that this nation might be and remain a nation of free men with honor unsullied."

"And where could there be a more proper place? Who could gaze upon this beautiful scene in this valley so rich in God given fertility and so fertile in man made history and not be stirred to those deeper and fuller impulses which make man rise above the commonplace?"

"Time and desire are lacking for a complete recouping of the many virtues of those whose memory we perpetuate. They died to preserve freedom of worship, thought and action. They were true patriots. Their chief characteristic was their devotion to our flag, that symbol of liberty and freedom."

"I know of no better way to perpetuate their memory and nothing that could be more pleasing to them than by dedicating ourselves here and now to those principles which they served so devoutly and particularly to that one prime tenet—patriotism. That we must seek to revive patriotism in this land of ours is a sad commentary upon the present generation."

"Here in America we find a proper recognition of these conditions in a strengthening of our defenses in a material way. The President has issued a call for the young people to settle inland—away from the seacoast which he tells us will be a place of danger. There is an ever increasing sense of insecurity due to the elimination of time and distance with new inventions and means of travel. The scientific destruction of human life and devastation in its greatest height. But all this increase on the material side of national defense is not enough. There is a greater and more insidious danger to be overcome. It is a weakening of our moral fiber by those who are today attacking the doctrine of peace at any price, a peace without honor, a peace without respect and without freedom or liberty. These doctrines come from the most unexpected of sources. We hear of teachers and others who are teaching their very children to take an oath of allegiance to the state and nation. American children are being taught to salute the flag—the symbol of our national life."

Pilot's Skill Praised, Credited With Saving 15 Passengers' Lives

Chicago, June 1 (AP)—A pilot's skill was credited today with averting a tragic crash when a huge airliner, gliding down to a forced landing, plunged into a house and thudded into a narrow vacant lot in the South Side.

The 15 persons on board the Transcontinental and Western Air Lines plane, nosing through the night at the end of a nonstop flight from New York, escaped death and serious injury. All were bruised and shaken. Six remained in a hospital.

The 12 passengers praised the maneuvering of Pilot W. L. Smith of Cranford, N. J., and the efforts of Stewardess Grace Davidson of Pittsburgh, who assisted some of her stunned charges from the cabin despite a painful cut on the head and a wrenched neck.

The Douglas skyliner arrived over the Chicago Municipal Airport about 10 o'clock last night from Newark. Smith told investigators later he was coming in for a landing at the airport when a "break gust of wind" blew the tail around and caused the loss of 100 feet in altitude.

"I saw I couldn't make the field," he added. "So I picked out the vacant lot and pancaked into it."

Two officials said the plane was about 300 feet off the ground when the gust struck it. The airport dispatchers office reported the ship had been ordered to land and had precedence over two other transport liners circling the field at the same time.

The craft struck a cupola on the home of Joseph Mariotte. A portion of one wing broke off. The plane spun in a half circle and plummeted into the lot. The nose was sheared off, but the cabin was left upright and virtually intact by the pancake landing.

R. W. Marshall and Daniel Mahoney, both of New York, were under observation in a hospital.
Miss V. W. Markel, Pelham Manor, N. Y., continued to Los Angeles by train.

In Political Arena.
Albany, N. Y., June 1 (AP)—New York state Townsend Club supporters today were old and new receiving position plan, prepared today to enter actively the political arena this fall after winding up their first annual state convention here last night.

Washington, June 1 (AP)—By five to four, the Supreme Court declared unconstitutional a 1933 New York law establishing minimum wages for women and children.

The ground given was that the state law contravened the constitutional guarantee of liberty. It was held that "the right to make contracts" must not be violated.

Justice Butler spoke for the majority.

Chief Justice Hughes and Justices Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo dissented.

Justices Roberts, Van Devanter, Sutherland and McReynolds sided with Butler.

The legislation had been challenged by Joseph Tipaldo, Brooklyn laundry manager, who was indicted for forgery in an alleged attempt to conceal violation of the law. He won his freedom on a writ of habeas corpus.

The law fixed the minimum wage for women laundry workers at $12.40 a week. It was enacted and signed by Governor Herbert Lehman in 1933.

A similar law for the District of Columbia was held unconstitutional by the Supreme Court 13 years ago.

New York attorneys said, however, their statute took into account the value of services rendered while the district law dealt only with the cost of living in determining the minimum wage.

"Due Process" Clause.
The majority opinion today held that the law violated the "due process" clause of the constitution in that it deprived persons of the right to make contracts. This was similar to the grounds given in the action 13 years ago.

The NRA Guffey coal cases, the court also had overturned efforts of the federal government to provide for minimum wages.

"The right to make contracts about one's affairs is a part of the liberty protected by the 'due process' clause," the latest decision said of the state effort.

"Within this liberty are provisions of contracts between employer and employee fixing the wages to be paid."

"In making contracts of employment, generally speaking, the parties have equal rights to obtain from each other the best terms they can by private bargaining."

Dissected Delivered.
Delivering the dissent, the chief justice asserted that "in the statute before us no unreasonableness appears" and "the end is legitimate and the means appropriate."

"Here," he added, "the special conditions calling for the protection of women, and for the protection of society itself, are abundantly shown."

"The legislation is not less in interest of the women employees who are paid less than the value of their services."

"That lack must be made good out of the public purse."

"Granted that the burden of the support of women who do not receive a living wage can not be transferred to employers who pay the equivalent of the service they obtain, there is no reason why the burden caused by the failure to pay that equivalent should not be placed upon those who create it."

"The fact that the state can not secure the benefit to society of a living wage for women employees by any enactment which bears unreasonably upon employers does not preclude the state from seeking its objective by means entirely fair both to employers and the women employed."

In a separate dissenting opinion, Justice Stone, joined by Justice Cardozo, said he agreed with all that the chief justice had asserted but that he thought the court should leave "the selection and the method of the solution of the problems to which the statute is addressed where it seems to me the constitution has left them, to the legislative branch of the government."

Lehman Asks Reading.
Albany, N. Y., June 1 (AP)—Governor Herbert H. Lehman had no comment to make today on the Supreme Court's minimum wage law decision.

His office announced he would wait until he had read the court's opinion.

Queen Mary Completes Trip, But Fails to Lower 1935 Normandie Record

British Liner on Maiden Voyage Behind Rival's Time by About 3 Hours; Ship Receives Noisy, Basting Welcome.

DOCKING DELAY

Heavy Load of Mail and Welcoming Ceremonies Cause Delay in Docking at New York.

New York, June 1 (AP)—Completing her first voyage across the Atlantic, the British liner Queen Mary put into New York harbor today—but she failed to surpass the record crossing established by the Normandie last year.

The Queen Mary passed Ambrose Lightship at 7:55 a. m. (E. S. T.) and proceeded up Ambrose Channel to quarantine. She was not due to dock until late this afternoon.

The liner reached quarantine at 9:10 a. m. (E. S. T.), where the city's official welcoming party—headed by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler and Samuel Seabury—went aboard.

The delay in docking was due not only to the welcoming ceremonies, but to the heavy load of mail carried by the liner.

An official comparison of the times of the Queen Mary and the Normandie was not immediately available.

The comparison was further complicated by the fact that the Queen Mary's crossing was measured from Cherbourg breakwater to Ambrose, while the crossing of the Normandie was measured from Bishop's Rock Light, at the entrance of the English Channel, to Ambrose, 193 nautical miles shorter.

At the office of the Cunard Line, it was stated the Queen Mary, after leaving Cherbourg Breakwater at 7:35 p. m. (E. S. T.) last Wednesday, passed Bishop's Rock Light at 1:17 a. m. (E. S. T.) Thursday.

On this basis, it took the Queen Mary 4 days, 6 hours and 28 minutes from Bishop's Rock to Ambrose.

The Normandie's record for the same distance was four days, 3 hours, 13 minutes and 38 seconds.

The welcoming of the new liner began as soon as she passed the lightship. Three U. S. Army planes in formation flew over the ship with other planes circling about as the Queen slowed down to take on the pilot at the entrance to the channel.

Many small craft let go with horns and whistles as an echo to the Queen Mary's call for the pilot—three blasts from its deep horn.

The passengers aboard lined the decks to wave greetings to the welcoming craft.

A hundred small harbor craft, out of Gravesend and Sheephead Bays and the coves of Staten Island and the north Jersey shore, crowded the outer harbor.

On the lower bay shore of Brooklyn hundreds of men, women and children jammed the waterfront.

Planes droned and roared over the giant ship but there was little noise. That would come later when the Queen Mary weighed anchor after customs and health inspection and approached the traffic lanes of Robin Reef Lightship at the northern tip of Staten Island.

The Queen Mary's own pier, at the foot of West 50th Street, was draped with flags and bunting.

Captain Jeremiah A. Sullivan, in charge of the police detail on pier, said only about 5,000 persons would be admitted, lest overcrowding result in accident.

Legality of Architect Fees For the Junior High Delays Adoption of School Budget

Park-O-Meters Illegal On City Streets, Rules Corporation Counsel

It is illegal for the Common Council of Kingston to adopt an ordinance permitting the installation of Park-O-Meters or similar devices on the public streets, according to an opinion made public this morning by Corporation Counsel John M. Cashin. The corporation counsel said that to his knowledge this was the first time that the question of legality had been raised in New York state.

Mr. Cashin gave as his opinion that the aldermen cannot adopt any ordinance that would make any one pay for the privilege of parking his car on the streets of Kingston. He stated that he was preparing a written opinion on the subject which he would file with the city authorities.

The question of the use of Park-O-Meters in the uptown business section first arose when Mayor Heiselman asked the Uptown Business Men's Association to consider the matter. The use of these machines in other states throughout the country was set forth, and the entire matter left up to the opinion of the business men uptown as to whether they desired the machines installed in the uptown business section in an effort to relieve the parking problem.

The Uptown Business Men's Association recently held a meeting and voted unanimously in favor of the installation of the machines in the uptown business section.

Before the machines could be installed, however, it was necessary to adopt an enabling ordinance and it was believed that the matter would come up at the June meeting of the Common Council.

Now that the corporation counsel has decided that the council has not the power or authority to adopt such an ordinance it is likely that no further steps will be taken in the matter of having the machines installed.

The type of machine it was proposed to install allowed half hour parking by dropping a nickel into the machine, and if the auto driver desired to park for one hour it was necessary to drop two nickels into the machine.

If the machines had been ordered installed it would have required approximately 250 machines to cover the area it was desired to have them installed in.

Tugboat W. S. Earl Badly Damaged by Fire Saturday Night

Shortly after 10 o'clock Saturday evening Special Officer Charles Messenger discovered the Cornell Line tug William S. Earl on fire, and he promptly turned in an alarm of fire from Box 24, to which the fire department responded. The fire which started in the boiler room of the tug did considerable damage before it was brought under control. The fire department used the Bressman water distributor, a new piece of equipment, for the first time in fighting the tugboat fire.

The Earl was berthed at the dock at the Cornell Shops on the Strand and Officer Messenger, who patrols the downtown business section was in the Cornell towing office building when he first saw the flames shooting up from the hull of the tug.

The fire department fought the fire for several hours before it was brought under control. Difficulty was experienced in fighting the fire for it was necessary to siphon the water out of the boat as it was poured in from the fire hose in order to avoid sinking the vessel. The flames above deck were soon under control but the fire in the hold of the tug proved a more serious affair.

In checking the fire in the hold the Bressman water distributor was taken into the hold of the tug by two of the firemen. The distributor is a combination of small stream projectors operated on a rotary.

The tug was badly damaged by the fire.

It was 2 o'clock Sunday morning before the fire was out, but Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy assigned Captain Albright and Fireman Fitzgerald to remain on duty at the dock until 5 o'clock that morning. The Earl was berthed on the outside of two other tugs and a schooner.

Other Fires.
Saturday afternoon fire in rubbish under the porch of the residence of William S. Hutton at 75 Hasbrouck avenue called out the firemen. The damage was slight.

Shortly after 9 o'clock Sunday morning Supervisor Hugh Furman of the town of Ulster called for help for a fire in a chicken coop on the Bangor avenue premises of Mrs. E. Post of Van Buren street, and occupied by R. A. Burger. The coop which was a small structure was destroyed.

Sunday evening shortly after 5 o'clock an alarm from Box 47, called the firemen to the residence of Andrew J. Demski, 112 First avenue, where a fire had started in a sliding door and spread to the porch of the roof before it was brought under control. The fire started from a blow torch being used by painters.

Forest Fire Under Control.
Madison, Mass., June 1 (AP)—Cape Cod's worst forest fire in 10 years was under control today. Starting Saturday night John's Pond the blaze burned through 2,000 acres of 672 timberland, destroyed one house and threatened several small communities.

Pidcock Hanging Seen As Black Legion Act, Suicide Theory Probe

Detroit, June 1 (AP)—Death crossed the sinister trail of the Black Legion again today as authorities sought to learn if coincidence alone explained the hanging of Roy Pidcock within 24 hours after the slaying of Charles A. Poole, the unmasked night riding terrorist.

Adding the supposed suicide of Pidcock on a Canadian island to a list of a dozen deaths under scrutiny for possible Black Legion connections, state police also pressed their investigation of the shooting of John L. Bleak, an active member of the United Auto Workers Union, in 1934.

The "execution" of Poole, the one death definitely attributed to Black Legionnaires, occurred on May 12.

Pidcock, 32-year-old steel worker, disappeared from his home in Wyandotte, Mich., the same day. His body was found hanging in a hut on uninhabited Fighting Island, in Canadian waters of the Detroit river, the following day.

State Police Captain Ira H. Marmon asked Canadian authorities to reopen their investigation of that death after a friend said Pidcock had been invited to join the Black Legion.

The widow, Mrs. Nellie Pidcock, said last night her husband told her shortly before his death "they're going to let me, and they'll let you, too."

Canadian provincial police said they were convinced that Pidcock swam to the island, a mile and a half from the mainland, and hanged himself.

Two formal inquiries into terrorist activities of the Black Legion were resumed today in Jackson and Flint, Mich., in Detroit, Michigan's attorney general conferred with Circuit Judge James E. Chenot, who will open a grand jury investigation Wednesday or Thursday, for which witnesses from other counties will be subpoenaed.

The attorney general said two indictments would be subpoenaed. One of the judges he said he was told, joined the Black Legion. The other, he said, attended a meeting but refused to join.

Another witness, the attorney general said, will be a Wayne county politician who is alleged to have displayed the Black Legion emblem—a bullet—in an apparent effort to intimidate Mayor Frank Curran, of Detroit.

In Washington, a group of congressmen prepared to press for action on resolutions demanding congressional investigations of the order on the grounds that it constituted a national menace.

Michigan investigators said, however, they believed the Black Legion for which one spokesman made an actual claim of 4,000,000 members, actually had no more than 100,000 and expressed doubt that it had a closely knit national entity.

Board Awaits Opinion Before Incorporating In Budget $15,395 For George Lowe, Who Drew Plans For School.

OTHER MATTERS

Building Committee Submits Its Recommendations For Summer Vacation Repairs.

Adoption of the school budget for the year 1936-1937 was delayed until the June meeting and will not be presented to the common council at its meeting tomorrow evening. The delay is made pending a decision by Corporation Counsel John M. Cashin as to the legality of a claim for architect fees made by George E. Lowe, who drew plans and prepared specifications for a Junior High School. In the budget the board desires to incorporate an item of $15,395 for architect fees if the corporation counsel holds that it may legally be done.

The budget was ready for submission to the board at the meeting Friday evening but was held up pending an opinion by Mr. Cashin.

Under the budget as proposed it will be necessary to raise by taxation the sum of $140,766.99 for school purposes for the ensuing year. That with the state moneys will provide sufficient funds for school operation during the next school year.

Should the budget be adopted and approved by the common council it will give taxpayers a rate of $6.02 per thousand of assessment against the 1936 rate of $7.20. This reduction of $1.18 will be quite an item for all taxpayers.

When Trustee Cragin of the finance committee presented the budget there was considerable discussion. Trustee Hutton stated that under present industrial conditions it would be well to hold the school tax item as low as possible and it was asked whether the increase in salary for teachers was mandatory. It was pointed out that grade school teachers are entitled by law to the annual increase of $75 and that high school teachers are entitled by law to a similar increase. Some years ago Kingston salaries were extremely low and at that time it was voted to make the annual increase $100 a year for high school teachers until salaries were up to those of similar towns.

Under the budget which was proposed but which went over until the next meeting it was anticipated that the total operating costs of Kingston's school system could be met by raising the $140,766.99 by taxation, which added to the anticipated revenues from the state and from tuition would be sufficient to carry on all school work.

In reply to Trustee Hutton, Mr. Katz said that at present Kingston had the lowest tax rate of any school system in the six cities of this locality which might be compared to Kingston. Our teachers are on a par with teachers of those cities. Regents papers written indicated this.

Trustee Hasbrouck asked whether or not in these times it was advisable to go beyond the law in granting increase in salaries. He said the board should take into consideration the ability of the people to pay and at the same time scholars were entitled to the best of teachers.

It was pointed out that about fifty cents of the reduced tax rate, was due to the fact that the last bonds of the city schools had been paid off last year and this year nothing was incorporated in the budget for retirement of bonds.

The Architect Fees.
Judge Hasbrouck pointed out the item for architect fees and asked whether an opinion had been given by the corporation counsel as to the legality of that item. He said it would be best to get before the Common Council and ask for the adoption of the budget until it was determined whether the item was a legal charge against the city.

In relation to whether the charge was legal or not Trustee Hutton said that it was a charge which had been brought about by an honest effort to meet the desires of the city. When the Junior High School proposition was taken under consideration by the board it was done at the request and urgency of taxpayers, the mayor had expressed himself as favorable to a Federal grant and the Common Council had asked the board to investigate the one of question of a Junior High School. It was under the suggestion that the board did make a study. In order to secure a Federal grant it was necessary to take every step of the plan.

Acting on the suggestion of the Common Council he said plans were secured, costs estimated and application was made then for a Federal grant to assist in the cost. In order to aid this grant certain things had to be done and time was pressing. Speed was necessary. In view of the request from the Common Council for a study of the Junior High School proposition it was believed the Council was in error.

"Then the same council which

Architect Fees Delays School Budget

asked up to investigate turned down the bond issue. We feel we were acting on the request of the Common Council," said Mr. Byrne.

To Give Opinion
It was suggested Corporation Counsel Cashin be asked to come down and be later arrived. While he said he was not prepared to give an off-hand decision in so important a matter he intimated that in his opinion Mr. Lowe was entitled to be paid for the value of the work done. He said he would give a written opinion within a short time.

A letter was read in which it was called to the attention of Mr. Lowe that his bill was considered excessive. This was in March. An answer was read to that letter in which Mr. Lowe called attention to the work done and stated that it would be impossible to reduce his fees as he had contracted with engineers for certain sums for their assistance. He and his engineers called attention to the fact that at all times the Board had requested speed and that in order to carry out the work as asked by the board and have it ready for Federal approval so that the grant might be made from Federal funds it was necessary to devote all of his time to the work. Several other jobs were turned down and lost.

It was stated that while the Board had not signed the contract which Mr. Lowe signed, still the board had consented to its terms. A contract was drawn and signed by Mr. Lowe and the Federal authorities demanded that before the contract was signed by the Board of Education, that it be approved by the Federal authorities. This contract was signed and forwarded to the PWA in New York but before it came back approved for the signature of the Board the Common Council rejected the bond issue and the contract was never signed by the board. However, some members felt there had been a meeting of the minds and the board might be compelled to pay.

Under the city charter the board has until the first of July to submit its budget and the Common Council may have until July 10 to approve it. In view of this fact it was decided to wait until Mr. Cashin has submitted his opinion on the legality of the Lowe claim before submitting the budget to the Common Council for approval.

A request of the Schoolwomen's Club for use of the high school auditorium for a series of lectures from October to February was granted.

Bids Received.
Bids for paper, general supplies and library books were received and opened.

Livingston & LeFever submitted low bid for paper, $963.52 and the contract was awarded to them.

A bid was also received from Livingston & LeFever for general supplies in the sum of $2,744.20.

William O'Reilly was low for general supplies, $2,646.74, and was awarded that contract. William O'Reilly was also low for library books, $1,017.14 and was awarded that contract also. His bid on paper was $1,090.54.

Trustee Feeney moved contracts be awarded to the low bidder.

Trustee Byrne for the building committee reported having visited the schools and looked over the plans to determine work necessary during the summer vacation. The report of the committee as follows was adopted and the committee authorized to solicit bids for the larger jobs:

SINGERS FOR COMMUNITY CONCERT

Though possibly to be the last of the four community concerts to be given in Kingston for the benefit of the music lovers of the city and vicinity in 1936-37, the Russian Imperial Singers will present a program that will thrill and fascinate all who hear it. Five astounding voices—a first tenor, a second tenor, a baritone, a basso and a basso-profundo, compose the concert group known as The Russian Imperial Singers. This ensemble possesses that stirring quality of tone, rich and deep, which is the heritage of the Slav alone. It unites exact pitch with incisive and colorful rhythms of Russian music of every type.

The members of the ensemble spent their youth in various parts of the old Empire of the Czars. These men have something to say, something individual and, at the same time, racial.

Their song sometimes thunders along like Gogol's troika, causing earth and stars to listen and wonder; sometimes it is a meditative Russia, wistful; then again it is filled with the zest of life worth living—the enthusiasm of youth, love and poetry, and humor is by no means left out. Their message is for all—it is stirring.

So whatever its place in the group of community concerts, first, second, third or fourth, it will be a concert that men and women and children will never forget.

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF
BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

Happy Family.
Archville, Tenn.—"Ivy," camp pet of a CCC unit near here, is a dog of mixed ancestry but her pedigree is not as scrambled as her present happy family.

"Ivy" is a full time mother and nurse to:
Two puppies, her own.
Three orphaned fox whelps.
An abandoned kitten.

Burglar's Alarm.
Tampa, Fla.—Punctuality must be important in his business.

A thief entered a home on Tampa Bay boulevard, stole an alarm clock and left many valuable articles untouched.

Lights Out.
Delaware, O.—Col. Lynn Black, superintendent of the Ohio State Penitentiary, noticed an auto whose taillight was not burning. He pulled ahead of the driver.

"Now don't tell me you didn't know your taillight was out," began Black, reaching for a traffic summons.

"Sure, but so's yours," replied the motorist.

"And it was," admitted Black afterwards, "so I bawled him out a little and let him go."

Return Engagement.
San Francisco—The "cop in the back room" failed William Patterson in his second hour of need. He frightened a robber away from his garage several days ago by warning: "Sh-h, there's a cop in the back room."

On a return call last night the robber ignored the warning, cracked Patterson on the head and took $25. He guessed right. There was no cop in the back room.

Courting Made Easy.
Chicago—They've passed another milestone on the path to an effortless civilization. Down at the Jackson Park lagoon, where perisperm swaine once rowed their admiring sweethearts over the rippling waters, electric "drive-it-yourself" gondolas have been put into service.

Judge Bliss Denounces Foreign Doctrines

From the pulpits come the refusal to participate in all forms of military training, education, and activities. There are those who urge disrespect of the flag and the national anthem. All war, however necessary to our national existence is forbidden. They seek to throttle the spirit of patriotism. We find great bodies of our citizenry, even in solemn convalescence, considering a formal refusal to fight in the defense of our nation. They would willingly surrender to the first foreign invader, those advantages which were purchased with the sweat and blood of our patriot dead. They place no value upon service to one's country and urge their listeners to refuse such service. To them our homes, our families and our fortunes mean nothing. They would not defend this very liberty which they themselves are enjoying through the efforts and sacrifices of others.

"I do not deny the desirability of peace. I do not urge the waging of any conflict of aggression. I do not belittle war's tremendous wastage of human life—its pain, suffering and destruction of all the best results of human endeavor. Nor do I belittle the teachings and practice of friendship for our fellow man. As a means of settling national disputes, war is the oldest and most destructive of methods. And I praise the efforts of those who seek to abolish war and to substitute other methods.

This World Is Practical
"But this is a practical world. To me there is not the slightest objection to swearing allegiance to my government. If I am unwilling to do that I am not worthy of being a citizen of this republic. If I am unwilling to serve in the defense of my country I do not deserve to enjoy its protection.

"Those who preach this doctrine of peace at any price are not only unworthy of citizenship in our great republic but ungrateful to those whose memory we revere here today. Their theory is perfect, their practical application worthless. They would accept all of the benefits of citizenship, protection, peace and quiet, prosperity and safety, freedom of worship, thought and action and deny their obligations. They would have all the benefits and none of the corresponding duties. In most nations they would not even be permitted to preach these doctrines of resistance.

Higher Patriotism
"And so let us meet argument with argument, reason with reason, and confound these false and unworthy doctrines. Let us make a firm resolve to preach a higher patriotism and greater love for our great and glorious country and a willingness to make any sacrifice it may demand. Thus may we best honor our heroic dead.

In the words of Edgar A. Guest:
"The finest tribute we can pay
Unto our hero dead today
Is not a speech of roses red,
But living, throbbing hearts instead."

Major Stark's Body Sought.
Morgan, Utah, June 1 (AP)—Convicted that Major Howard Stark could not have gone far through a five-foot snow and a 20 below zero temperature, men on horseback hunted his body today in a milleradius circle about his wrecked plane on a rocky 8,000-foot peak. Four and a half months after the plane crashed in a night fight during a snowstorm last January, the wreckage was found Saturday by a sheep herder.

That shall renew the pledge they sealed
With death upon the battle field
That freedom's flag shall bear no stain
And free men wear no tyrant's chain.

Mayor's Address
Mayor Heiselman in his speech of welcome charged that the "philosophy of Bolshevism" was gaining in the country. He urged that a strong fight be made against the growth of this philosophy in the nation. He expressed confidence, though, in the American people and "our social consciousness," saying he felt that American qualities would "make our future secure."

The mayor urged that his listeners take stock of what was happening in the nation today, cautioning against the "subversive propaganda" that is being spread. He cited an occasion that took place in Catskill, according to a story he read, where a minister in a circulated petition asked young people of that village never to bear arms nor to attend ceremonies at which the Star Spangled Banner was sung or played. Said the mayor, "It is a wonder to me the action of such a gentleman is tolerated by his church and community."

"I am fearful of what this country faces, and I ask each one of you to see that this subversive propaganda does not raise its head in this old Colonial City of Kingston," he added.

The Rev. Mr. Carroll Speaks
The Rev. Arthur G. Carroll laid further emphasis on the thought expressed by the mayor by declaring, as Mayor Heiselman said, and inform ourselves of those subtle forces working for the overthrow of our government."

"Nothing is more powerful than an idea come to its own time," the clergyman went on, saying that it mattered not whether the idea was Communism, Fascism, Nazism or any other political doctrine. Ideas like these are bound to spread by force of propaganda and the power behind the idea.

John Halliday, whom Mayor Heiselman introduced as "one of the few survivors of the Civil War in this city" was loudly cheered. "We should be very grateful that God has spared him to us so long," said the mayor.

The Memorial Day parade, Saturday morning, was one of the most impressive ever seen in Kingston with its long line of various organizations marching to fittingly celebrate the occasion and crowds of spectators assembled along the way to view the spectacle.

All of the organizations that planned to take part in the parade were out in the march, and there was one additional unit the Port Ewen Fire Company Auxiliary.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 1, 1936

TRAFFIC SURVEY.

Traffic problems in this country are being treated scientifically. In old days they were largely ignored, but multiplication of automobiles and trucks has made study and control imperative. Various traffic surveys have been made in American cities during recent years, notably one in Philadelphia. A new survey is planned for Cleveland, on a more ambitious scale than usual. It will employ perhaps 500 men and last several months and cost $400,- 000 to $500,000. It is a WPA project for white collar workers, and looks expensive, but if well done should be worth while. It will determine what streets are most heavily traveled, what sections and crossings are most congested, what can be done by traffic rules to expedite traffic, where new arteries are needed or existing arteries can be made adequate by widening and straightening, where short-cuts are desirable, and so on. A unified policy in sought for the whole metropolitan area, so that street traffic may flow easily and naturally from any part of it to any other part.

This is obviously desirable in any city, large or small. There are villages and small towns suffering as seriously from traffic congestion at important points as any large community. Traffic is the blood of business, also of social life. It should flow like the blood in human arteries and veins. Nothing else helps more to promote the prosperity and health of a community.

SIX STATES TOGETHER

The New England states anticipate record-breaking throngs of visitors this season, but they are not leaving their hopes to chance for fulfillment.
 The New England Council has been doing unusual and intensive regional advertising.

Over 52 million printed invitations to spend a vacation in New England have appeared in national magazines.
 Newspaper advertisements outside of New England will total nearly 93 million printings by June 30. A series of national radio broadcasts have extended the invitation vocally.
 A comprehensive direct mail campaign has reached important groups in key cities all over the United States. The Council has issued a summer season calendar showing special events of 1936, such as the tercentenary celebrations of Harvard University and the state of Rhode Island. The Council modestly points out that New England's attractions are varied—ocean, lakes, mountains, rivers, quiet villages, good roads,
 historic shrines, cool climate.

Florida and California and a few cities have long done this sort of thing. But here are six states cooperating in a vacation-business advertising campaign to benefit all of them. It is a fine example of regional team work which will doubtless reap its deserved reward in the next four months.

FUEL FROM WINE

Americans often drive on wine—
 but with the wine inside them.
 Italians are going to run their cars on wine. A large part of last year's bumper crop is to be distilled into alcohol and blended with gasoline in the proportions of one to five.

This can be done effectively in a land where sweet grapes grow so abundantly as they do in Italy.
 There will be enough alcoholized grape sugar for many millions gallons of pure alcohol. Yet in lands like ours, where wine is a luxury rather than a viticultural staple, it seems a strange thing to do—far more so than turning sweet sugar into fuel alcohol, which the Italians are also doing.

The reason is the shortage of gasoline in Italy. The country has been hit harder by the war, plus League sanctions, than Minnesota would be.
 Only 2 per cent of the country's gasoline now comes from domestic sources. If the League demands from there will be rivers of Chianti and Asti and Pomino going to feed the army trucks.

HOSPITAL-SCHOOL

A combined hospital and school for crippled children opens in Tulsa Okla., on June 1. There will be room for fifty boarding patients and a number of other children near by who will attend daily classes. The children will receive the required physical and medical care, and at the same time will study English, arithmetic, history and other regular school subjects. In addition there will be lessons in sewing, basket weaving, toy making, pottery molding and similar crafts.

Two purposes are served. Patients recover more rapidly when their minds are occupied. In addition to keeping mind alert, busy and well, the hospital-school enables its handicapped children to keep up with their classmates without taking them away from the treatments they need.

MORE GRAIN

Russia has become the world's largest producer of wheat, barley and oats, ousting the United States from that position. Within the British Empire, India has replaced Canada as the largest wheat and barley producing country. These facts are given in a report just issued by the Imperial Economic Committee covering a period from 1928 to 1935.

These and other shifts in production are bound to produce important shifts in trade. Countries increasing their own grain production buy less grain from older producing countries. What then? And with agricultural methods improving, bringing greater yield to the acre everywhere, is a time coming when more grain will be produced than humans and livestock can consume?

That Body of Ours

FEAR OF THE UNKNOWN

In a large city many years ago the outstanding physicians in hospital and bedside were two clever but very gruff gentlemen.
 What they said to the patient and to the family of the patient was likely truthful, but the patient was made to feel that medicine was a mystery that his questions were childish and that if there were a chance to pull him through they could do it.

Part of this gruffness may have been assumed and compared with questions asked today the questions were likely childish.
 However in these days patients know something about their bodies and how they work and as Dr. Chas.
 Mayo says, "the doctor who does not take his patient into his confidence is not up to date." The physician now knows that the influence of the mind on the general health, the general running order of the body is so strong that rather than have the patient worried, wondering, apprehensive, it is wiser to explain just what has gone wrong in the system, how much or how little damage has been done, and what will be necessary on the part of the patient and physician to get things back to normal or as near normal as possible.

The key note in the discussion is of course to reassure the patient because hope is the most effective medicine known.
 About 12 years ago my daily articles during a certain period compared the body to a motor car; the gasoline was the food, the gas tank was the stomach, the carburetor was the bony framework, the shock absorbers were the tires and discs between the bones of the spine, the steering gear and electric equipment were the brain and nervous system, and so forth. In another series I compared the body to a house.

Thus some physicians explain the patient's ailment to him in terms of a motor car—wrong gasoline or too much or too little; the gas flow is partly blocked, the battery run down, the exhaust partly choked, too much gas (food) in the carburetor for the amount of air mixing with it, some parts getting worn, and various other comparisons. The physician is thus describing something in terms
 the patient can understand.

Thus the patient gets away from the fear of the unknown and bends his energies toward helping the physician to get his body back into its best possible condition.

Gypsy Weather

By MARGARET BELL MONISTON

RYNOPSIS. Dirk Joris has not solved the mystery which surrounds Hope Doring, the girl his older brother Rupert married one night after an hour's acquaintance. But at any rate he has learned that Hope herself seems to be an impressing dancer, and he knows now that Hope understands his wondered love for her—and perhaps returns it. Hope has refused to go to a coming out party with him, he is talking with Isabel, friend from childhood, and she is being a little enigmatic.

Chapter 35

BADINAGE

"SLAP me if I'm wrong, Dirk," Is-bel said, "but I've always felt Rupert must have been tight when he married Hope... all of a sudden like that, right after Elmer had turned him down. He doesn't seem to see how you... You know I felt at first that you and Rupert would fight over Hope. But he doesn't even seem to see her, or to see how you care. And he certainly doesn't seem happy."

"Though he's one of those who need it," smiled Dirk.
 "Exactly. And so you think if you would go to Rupert, and tell him... he'd give her up to you. It's been done before."

Odd. He had been thinking that himself. But he didn't like hearing it from Isabel.
 "It's an idea," he admitted. "But aren't you reckoning without Hope?"
 "Am I? Doesn't she...?"
 "I'm afraid she doesn't. You see she met me before she did Rupert."
 Isabel's slate-colored eyes grew blank.

"That surprises me. I suppose I assumed that any girl would want you... if you wanted her."
 "If that," said Dirk, "is a sample of your reasoning..."
 "Well, it is."

"Then you need help in picking out a husband. Let's weigh the respective virtues of Joe and Freddy."
 "Oh, not the virtues, Dirk!"
 "I mean, of course, so we can throw out the one that has the most."

DIRK got home shortly after one o'clock, remembering the full day ahead of him. Mary opened Hope's door as he reached the top of the stairs. Mrs. Joris, she said, wanted to see him, wanted to hear about the party. Would he come in a minute?

In the dim light Hope was sitting up in bed, the small painted shawl about her shoulders. Her cheeks were flushed, her hair tumbled. She looked like a wakeful, excited child.
 "You don't mind?" she said.
 "Mind? I should say not."

He laid off his dark fur vest and coat, and while muffled, took the big gilt chair beside the bed. Mary, who had waited up for him, and who was tired, felt that she might undress now, and go to sleep. She went out and closed the door.

"You look grand," Hope said to Dirk. "I didn't see you before you went."

"I listened at the door," he answered. "Everything was so quiet I thought you were asleep."

"I haven't been asleep at all. I thought every sound was you. I wanted to see you tonight because you are leaving so early. Please sit closer, so that I can look at you. Was the party beautiful?"

He came and sat beside her on the bed.

"I think you would have called it
 'wonderful,'" he smiled and said.
 "Did Isabel give you that?" Her finger touched the silver flower in his buttonhole.

"Yes. Want it?"
 She held out a hand.

"It's mistletoe," she discovered.
 "Mistletoe with silver leaves."
 "Isabel awarded it to me as a Croix de Guerre, because I'd been brave."

"Brave?"
 "I decided whom she should marry. It lay between Freddy Norvin and Joe Vincent. We stripped and weighed them, as it were. It was a tie. We were in a smoking lounge, and I said, 'Let's make it the one who comes here to bed.' She

"She says so," he answered.

Swine Production

Called the farm's number-one economy animal because he feeds it so easy to raise "scraps" into meat, the boar has developed into an important farm industry in New York state.

Cornell's newest bulletin aims to help producers to get better results from their herds, and to establish their herds. Information on the choice of breeds, feeding, care, and management is given, and the facts can always be used by those who raise hogs.

Home-Making

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

There was a time when a girl learned much of the art of housekeeping and home-making during the years when she lived in her father's house. Today so much of the housework is done mechanically and the children are kept so busy with school work and extra curricular activities, that the average girl leaves home with no idea of how to do anything about the house. When she marries and has a home of her own, she is amazed and overwhelmed at the amount of work necessary.

House-keeping may some day be mechanized to the vanishing point, but home-making will exist until human nature changes. Home-making requires at least a rudimentary knowledge of house-keeping. There are ways and means of teaching this even to the busy girls of today, once the mothers learn the need and value of such training.

Perhaps the spring or fall cleaning period could be shifted so as to take place during Sally's vacation.
 Sally is sixteen and quite capable of doing the work. It will be hard for the mother to sit by and watch Sally's efforts to bring order out of chaos. But too much interference will only discourage the child. A few general directions, a list of what must be done, a deliberate absence from the scene of action, praise for work well done, and real sympathy for aching back and roughened hands, will spur Sally on to do her best.

The first engagement may leave much to be wished for, but another season will see improvement, and in the end the mother will be more than repaid for her own inconvenience by turning out a real housewife.

FREE STATE CUSTOMS HUT

ON ULSTER TAX TERRITORY

Dublin, (AP).—No Irish flats are flying but many an Irishman is wearing a broad smile over the latest comedy drama in the Free State-Ulster emitt.

The customs huts of the two governments face each other across the boundary line on the Dublin-Belfast road.

Free State officers were suddenly surprised to find two men surveying their offices. Sharp inquiry disclosed they were Ulster officials who had discovered that half of the Free State's office was in Ulster, and subject to taxes.

Practic figuring by Free State experts has revealed that it is all too true and now they are awaiting an Ulster tax bill.

Sure, we get tired of political oratory; but it's not so bad as trying to run things through secret groups that never talk.

Church Committees Ask All to Remember Sale for the Blind Here

Have you visited the Sale for the Blind which is being held at 304 Wall street? You will be surprised at the large variety of household articles which the blind are offering for sale, and how far your dollar will go when invested in the Industrial Department of the Blind. There is no profit in these sales for the sightless. The selling price of every article is made up of the cost of the material plus the wage paid the blind worker. The blind are the only beneficiaries. The church committees ask for full support for the cause of the sightless.

The blind make many things which the housewife will find of interest at the Wall street store. First, there are the brooms which years of experience have proved to be one of the few long-lasting brooms on the market. Then there are mops for all purposes and the rainbow dusters in colors to match the rooms in which they are used. Also the shoe and laundry bag will be found unique and sturdy in design and workmanship. Another one of the big sellers is the dish cloths made of old fashioned honeycomb fabric which is so seldom seen in these days of cheap imitations. Elderly blind ladies hem these dish cloths and when you buy them you have the double satisfaction of knowing that you are securing one of the best dish cloths on the market and at the same time are helping to make happy and contented some aged sightless worker.

Assignments of time and committees in charge of the sale for Thursday, June 4, are as follows:

10 A. M.-2 P. M. First Baptist.

Mrs. Irwin Ronk, chairman; Mrs. William E. Simmons, Mrs. Harold Brigham, Mrs. Grover C. Lasher, Mrs. George B. Mathews, Mrs. J. Grove Brown, Miss Mary E. Lacy, Mrs. George Groves, Mrs. Harry Klothe.

2-5:30 P. M. St. Paul's Lutheran.

Mrs. Paul Radatz, chairman; Mrs. Emil Otto, Mrs. Frank Meyers, Mrs. Fred Renn, Mrs. Paul M. Young, Mrs. Adam Salzman, Mrs. John Bode, Mrs. Carl Will, Mrs. Herman La-Tour, Mrs. Howard Kelder, Mrs. Henry Marquart, Mrs. Andrew Broskie, Mrs. John Knoblock.

Honor Texas President

Dallas (AP)—Anson Jones, the shoe clerk from New York who became the fourth president of the Republic of Texas, is being honored by a permanent shrine in the Texas "Hall of Heroes" here. Jones, who struggled to school himself as a physician, arrived in Texas in 1826. He was both surgeon and soldier in the battle of San Jacinto. He opposed bitterly the union of Texas and the United States and soon after the ceremony, February 16, 1846, when Texas became a state, he took his life.

Conventions That Made History

DEADLOCKED REPUBLICAN SESSION SWEEPS "DARK HORSE" HARDING INTO PRESIDENCY.

Warren G. Harding, small town newspaper publisher and "surprise" nominee for the presidency in 1920, conducted a successful campaign from the front porch of his Marion, Ohio, home.

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

Washington, (AP).—Staunch Republicans hope the Cleveland convention will choose a presidential nominee strong enough to terminate what they describe as "the unconstitutional, dictatorial regime of Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Sixteen years ago staunch Republicans met at Chicago to select a standard bearer "to end the wartime autocracy of the Woodrow Wilson dynasty." Cartoons in Republican newspapers depicted Wilson sitting on a throne and wearing a crown.

A strange shuffle of political fortunes immediately following the World War sent "Dark Horse" Warren G. Harding and Calvin Coolidge to the presidency.

How History Was Made.

Political history of the last 13 years might have been entirely different if Senator Hiram Johnson of California had accepted the offer of the vice presidential nomination from the Republican Old Guard who picked Harding in 1920. Johnson would have become President upon Harding's death and very likely would have been a candidate to succeed himself in 1924.

Theodore Roosevelt and Herbert Hoover conceivably might have battled for the presidency in 1920. At the end of the World War "Teddy" was rated one of the most powerful potential candidates for the presidency. His support of Hughes in 1916, after declining the Bull Moose nomination, had strengthened him with party regulars and he still was very popular with the progressive faction.

Hoover Declined Democratic Bid

Hoover, famed for his relief work in Belgium, was mentioned prominently as the best man to carry the Democratic standard in 1920. But Hoover declared he was a Republican and Colonel Roosevelt died unexpectedly in 1919, leaving no outstanding aspirant for the Republican nomination.

Mr. Hoover was placed in nomination for the presidency at the Republican convention, but on the final ballot received only 10 1/2 votes.

Leading contenders were General Leonard Wood, who had been an intimate friend of Teddy Roosevelt, and Governor Frank Lowden, quite strong in the middle west. Into Chicago from California breezed Hiram Johnson, vowing death to Woodrow Wilson's League of Nations but refusing to dicker with the Old Guard.

With these three candidates deadlocked, the political lightning struck little-known Harding of Ohio.

The Coolidge Stampede.

When Johnston declined the vice presidential nomination, the convention finally stampeded toward Coolidge, the Massachusetts governor who had attained celebrity by his handling of the Boston police strike. Modestly declining to comment on his own selection, Mr. Coolidge said "the Republican party has adopted a sound platform, chosen a wise leader and is united." The pro-Wilson New York World, on the morning after Harding's nomination, said: "The Republican party never has selected a more respectable figure-head; Harding is a perfect flower of old guard politics."

Mr. and Mrs. Harding hurried home to Marion, Ohio, to begin a successful front-porch campaign with the slogan "back to normalcy."

WHEN ALABAMA HELD TRUE TO UNDERWOOD

Washington, (AP).—The Republican convention at Cleveland may develop into prolonged battle for the presidential nomination but there is little to indicate a struggle like the record-breaking 103 ballot contest of the Democrats in New York in 1924.

For 102 ballots the seemingly never-ending roll call of the states started off with the famous "Alabama casts its 24 votes for Oscar Underwood." On the 103rd ballot John W. Davis, compromise selection, was nominated after a 17-day battle between supporters of William G. McAdoo and Alfred E. Smith.

Leading candidates, and a number of favorite sons.

Andre Polak to Bring Orchestra Here June 3

Andre Polak, conductor of the Syracuse Symphony Orchestra, passed the baton to his assistant conductor, Nicholas Gualillo, at one concert in Syracuse this season and gave a violin solo playing Bruch's Concerto in G Minor. For this number Mr. Polak used a $35,000 Joseph Guarnerius violin, the property of John McCormack, the Irish tenor, who has loaned this instrument to Mr. Polak for a number of years.

The tenor and conductor toured the country in 1917 in the interest of the Liberty Loan drive and at one concert in San Francisco raised over $42,000.

Mr. Polak will bring his orchestra to Kingston Wednesday, June 3, in connection with New York State Mayors' Conference.

Leonard Stine, music director of Kingston High School, is chairman of the ticket committee.

St. Ursula Party Largely Attended

The annual Garden Party held at the Academy of St. Ursula on Wednesday, May 27, was largely attended. Clearing skies made it possible to use the spacious grounds of the convent for both the afternoon bridge and the supper which followed. Attractively decorated booths about the lawn displayed a variety of wares and were generously patronized. The display of basketry, knit and crocheted articles and needlework made by the patients of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital under the auspices of Miss Margaret O'Sullivan attracted a great deal of interest. The patronage given the booth netted a nice sum for the hospital as well as a substantial percentage to the promoters of the Garden Party. In the evening the bridge and pinocle players were accommodated in the large auditorium. The chicken salad supper, served at small tables on the lawn, was patronized by some 200 guests.

The money realized at these annual Garden Parties is used solely to obtain additional equipment for use of the students in the high school, intermediate, primary and kindergarten grades.

Lehman Empowers Public Service Group

Albany, N. Y., June 1 (AP)—The Public Service Commission gained the power to disapprove contracts and arrangements between affiliated companies, if it finds such contracts to be against the public interest, under a law signed today by Governor Lehman.

The law empowers the commission, after investigation and hearing, to disapprove contracts and arrangements for the purchase of electric energy or gas. Under existing law, the commission has jurisdiction only as to management, construction, engineering or similar contracts between affiliated concerns.

The Governor also announced approval of a bill to permit the merger of domestic gas and electric corporations in cases where there is 95 per cent stock ownership. The present law requires 100 per cent stock ownership.

The Governor pointed out that approval of the Public Service Commission must be obtained before any such merger can be effected. The joint legislative committee to investigate public utilities sponsored the bill.

Governor Lehman vetoed four bills. One, planned to make the state liable the year round for damages suffered by any persons because of defects in state highways and to extend the liability to include improper maintenance of the state highways, however caused.

The State Pension Commission opposed a bill introduced by Assemblyman Hamilton F. Potter, Suffolk Republican, and vetoed by the Governor. The commission said the measure would allow civil service credit to city employees in certain instances during which no service was rendered and charged it would "result in a deficit in the retirement system."

A bill also was vetoed which would have permitted the tax levying body of any county, city, village or school district by two-thirds vote of the members to determine in any year that taxes and assessments against real property may be paid in installments over a period of one year. The director of the Bureau of Municipal Accounts opposed it.

The fourth disapproved measure, which the Governor said he was advised was "intended to compel the Federal Public Works Administration to pay taxes on housing projects within the state," would have limited the exemption of federal property from taxation.

IMPROVE YOUR PERSONALITY

"Not a bit alike, those two sisters. Why such a difference in personal- ity?"

That's what every one says about sparkling, well-poised Rita and tim- id, silent Bessie. Every one has for- gotten that only a few years ago they were both shy, uninteresting girls.

But one day Rita learned of the magic of modern psychology. She found out that personality can be changed.

With spunk that did her credit, she fought down that strangling sense of inferiority inferior be- cause of poor education. Rita went to evening schools. She didn't dress well, dance well, do her hair becom- ingly? She weeded out these de- fects.

By that time she no longer was afraid to talk to people. She found out that they were shy, too, and welcomed friendly advances from others. By voice, words, manner, Rita learned to shed warmth and ease about her. Bessie, well, she just wouldn't try! Preferred to think her life was spoiled by an unlucky child- hood.

So now Rita welcomes Hal with the grace of self-assurance. While Bessie is still "Hattie Hangback."

Our 40-page booklet, IMPROVING YOUR PERSONALITY, gives you just the tips you need in rescuing your life from the burden of an un- developed personality. You too, have fine traits, natural charm. Bring these to the surface in the modern, scientific way.

Send 15c for our booklet, IMPROVING YOUR PERSONALITY, to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home In- stitute, 109 West 19th street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Rev. G. W. Gulick Died in New York City

The Rev. George W. Gulick, pastor of the Associate Reformed Church of Newburgh, died suddenly Saturday in New York city where he was on church business. Mr. Gulick was very well known in Ulster county, having held several charges in this locality. He was also very prominent in Masonic circles and had been at Masonic Temple in New York city conversing with a friend when he was seized with an attack. He complained of pain in his head and on advice of a physician was taken to a hospital where he died several hours later.

Mr. Gulick was born at South Branch, N. Y., about sixty years ago. In 1901 he was graduated from Rutgers and from the New Brunswick Theological Seminary in 1904. Following his ordination he held several charges in this locality including Shawangunk, Mt. Marion, High Woods, Shokan and Mt. Tremper, Ulster Park and Union Center and at one time he also supplied St. Rem's Reformed Church. From Ulster Park he went to Newburgh in 1921 where he since has been pastor of the Associate Reformed Church of that city and resided at 16 Elm street.

In Masonic circles he was very widely known. He was a member of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, F. & A. M., of this city and was a Past Master of the lodge. He was also Captain of the Host in Mount Hope Chapter and was an honorary member of the Newburgh Chapter and acting chaplain. He was also Past Master of Ancient City Council, No. 21, Royal and Select Masters and Grand Standard Bearer of the Grand Council of Royal and Select Masters of the State of New York. At the time of his death he was commander of Rondout Commandery, No. 52, Knights Templar and had been planning to attend the Grand Commandery in Buffalo next week. Mr. Gulick was also a member of the New York Consistory, 32nd Degree of the Ancient and Scottish Rite.

Beside his wife, the former Lydia Meyer, daughter of the late Samuel Meyer of Mt. Marion and a sister of Jesse Meyer of that place, Mr. Gulick is survived by two sons, Jacob and George Jr., and two daughters, Adelaide and Sarah.

Funeral services will be held from the Newburgh Associate Reformed Church, corner of Grand and First streets, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Mt. Marion cemetery. Members of Rondout Commandery will furnish a guard of honor at the funeral services. The casket will be opened at the Fred G. Buss Funeral Home, 77 First street, Newburgh, this evening from 7 until 9 o'clock at which time friends may view the remains. Members of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, F. & A. M., are requested to meet at the lodge rooms at 3:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon to proceed to the Mt. Marion cemetery where Masonic services will be conducted at the grave.

Holiday Traffic Was Heavy in Kingston

Automobile traffic was heavy in Kingston both Saturday and Sunday, but no serious accidents marred the holiday in this city. Only one collision was reported in the city, but so one was reported injured. The collision between two cars at the Washington avenue viaduct resulted in one driver arresting the other on a charge of reckless driving. Chief of Police J. Allan Wood had made excellent arrangements for handling the holiday traffic and officers were stationed on traffic duty at busy street intersections. While traffic was at its height during the day the traffic lights on Broadway at the intersections of Foxhall avenue and Broadway and East Chester street and Broadway were turned off and traffic handled by a traffic officer. This aided in speeding up traffic along Broadway.

Recital Given at Trinity M. E. Church

Friday evening, May 29, Miss Ethel Mauterstock's pupils again gave a musical treat to a large audience when they presented their recital in the lecture room of Trinity M. E. Church.

The program was so varied and the numbers were rendered so beautifully that the hour and one-half taken to present it seemed all too short.

It was particularly noted that the pupils played with a great deal of ease and assurance, showing careful preparation on the part of teacher and pupil. They also seemed to enjoy their playing which of course made the numbers more delightful to their listeners.

The ensemble work of the pupils was particularly fine and the numbers given would have taxed the capabilities both technically and musically of many older students.

The readings were given with clear enunciation and splendid interpretation and were much enjoyed.

The vocal ensemble numbers were rendered beautifully, some splendid singing being noted.

Mrs. Wood, who seems a part of Miss Mauterstock's musical family, was at her best in the singing of "The Rosary."

Miss Frances Muller's description of the Grief numbers was exceptionally fine and she deserved the enthusiastic applause she received.

At the conclusion of the program Irene Suskind, on behalf of the pupils, presented Miss Mauterstock with a basket of beautiful flowers, as a token of their appreciation for her untiring interest in their work.

Many remained to congratulate Miss Mauterstock and her pupils for their splendid program.

Vincent Carr Is Reported Recovering

Vincent Carr, son of Undertaker and Mrs. Arthur G. Carr of 55 Lucas avenue, was reported as resting easier and showing signs of recovery at Masonic Hospital, El Paso, Texas, today.

Young Carr, on a motor honeymoon with his bride of nine days, Helen Hudson Carr, suffered a concussion of the brain last Thursday night when the car he was driving was forced off the highway and overturned. His wife was injured slightly.

The accident occurred at Sierra Blanco, 85 miles from El Paso. Saturday Arthur G. Carr, father of the injured youth, flew by plane from Kingston to Newark to El Paso, to be with his son, whose condition was reported as very serious.

A Freeman reporter was informed today that the injured man had a concussion of the brain, but that his skull was not fractured and that he suffered no broken bones.

The wedding of Vincent Carr and Miss Hudson took place at Trinity M. E. Church on May 26. After the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Fred H. Deming, pastor, the couple left by auto for a trip to the south and planned on extending it to the west coast.

Four People Hurt As Car Leaves Road

Four people were injured Saturday night near the Maverick Rest on Route 24 when a car driven by Joseph Kaback left the road and hit a large rock.

Those who sustained injuries were Mrs. Rose Kaback, who received cuts about the forehead, her son, David, 7, who cut his knee and forehead, Mrs. Joseph Ankenstein, who sustained abrasions of the left thigh and contusions of the elbow and Joseph Ankenstein who received a possible skull fracture.

They were admitted to the Kingston Hospital and treated.

It was stated that Mr. Kaback lost control of the car which was headed west at the time of the accident. The car was badly damaged.

NAVIGATION NOTES
The C. Miltbrand Dry Dock Company of South Rondout is the scene of much activity these days. In fact operations are to be compared to the pre-depression days of 1917. At present the company has a very large force of men at work, the number of employees being in the neighborhood of 100 men. Most of the work is repairing and recaulking of deck screws which have been laid up during the past few seasons of slack times on the river.

Indications are for a revival of river business and barge owners are getting ready to be in a position to handle business which may come their way. A large number of deck screws are being hauled out and repaired and gotten in condition for business. Activities in the brick business are becoming more brisk and there is a considerable demand for deck screws for stone. Rivermen report that barges and screws are in greater demand than for the past several years and much of the business at South Rondout is coming from owners who are placing their boats in order for business after a long lay-off.

The annual Richardson sawlaway cruise, on which new Richardson cruiser owners take their boats from the factory at North Tonawanda, N. Y., to New York city through the State barge canal and the Hudson River, got underway Saturday. There are 15 boats in the fleet under the command of J. E. Gillespie. Twelve of the boats are commanded by owners from the metropolitan area and three are headed for New England ports. A week will be required to make the trip through the canal and down the Hudson River. Kingston will be one of the stops of the cruise.

The cruise, conducted under the sponsorship of the Richardson Boat Company and Bruno-Kimball & Company, their New York agent, will make stops at Rochester, Lyons, Brewster, Canajoharie, Albany and Kingston before arriving at Duffy's Landing, 79th street and Hudson River, at noon on June 5.

This year in the driveway is a boat going to Gloucester, Mass., to serve as a fire and police patrol boat in the yacht anchorage there.

Geoff Smith, of the Texaco Waterways Service, is on Commodore Gillespie's staff to supervise the docking and servicing arrangements for the cruise by Texas Company dealers.

Activities for The Boy Scouts

The next meeting of the Western District Court of Honor Boy Scouts will take place in the Knights of Pythias Lodge rooms, Phoenixia, on Thursday evening, June 4, at 8 o'clock. The Rev. A. J. Coffey, chairman of the Court, will preside and awards will be made covering all applications.

The quarterly meeting of the Kingston District Scout officials will take place in the Municipal Auditorium on Wednesday evening, June 3, at 7:45. All District officials are expected to be present as well as the chairman and members of the various Troop Committees of the District. Complete plans for the summer will be made as well as reports of the last quarter's activities. Harry Halverson, chairman of the District, will preside.

The annual outing for all Scouters of the Council has been set for Thursday, June 11, at Mountain Rest at Lake Mohonk. All Scouters and their friends are invited and they are asked to telephone the Scout office and make their reservation on or before June 10.

Today, June 1, was the final day to register for camp in order to secure the low rate and 15 troops have their applications in before noon and it was expected others would be in before the close of the day.

Plans are going forward for the one-day outing for all troops of the Council to take place at Camp Half Moon on Saturday, June 13. This annual outing is looked forward to by all participants. Camp Director Cahill and Scout Executive Wright are making plans to give the troops one of the most enjoyable days in their experience. The program for the outing will start at 10:30 in the morning and run through until late afternoon. At noon all Scouts will prepare their own dinner and the morning and afternoon program will include games, contests, swimming, inspection of the camp, etc.

Pope Denounces Communism.
Vatican City, June 1 (AP)—A vigorous denunciation of Communism by Pope Pius XI on his 79th birthday was with delegates of Catholic Action Societies in 22 nations who began their homeward journeys today after attending a solemn Mass in St. Peter's yesterday in honor of the Holy Father. "Above all, guard yourselves against the dangers and insidiousness of Communism, against those who are false prophets, dreaming of an impossible union—a union of truth with falsehood," he told them.

Suffers Partial Paralysis.
Ossining, N. Y., June 1 (AP)—Mrs. Frances Q. Creighton, 36, awaiting execution for murder, has suffered partial paralysis of the throat and tongue through fear of the electric chair, persons close to the doomed woman disclosed today. Although Warden Lewis E. Laves of Sing Sing prison declined to comment on her condition, others said she sometimes has to write messages to visitors. Attendants said she may have to be carried to the chair. She was convicted jointly with Everett Applegate of poisoning Applegate's wife.

25 Guardsmen Called.
Forrest City, Ark., June 1 (AP)—Twenty-five national guardsmen were called out today to assist state rangers in preventing "possible disorders" in a strike of eastern Arkansas cotton hands. After reports were heard that striking cotton choppers planned a march on plantations to force a halt in field labor.

Zioncheck Taken For Mental Quiz

Washington, June 1 (AP)—Representative Zioncheck of Washington state was arrested today by police who sped him to Gallinger Hospital to be examined by doctors.

He had called at the White House executive offices twice during the morning, asking to see the President. Inspector Bernard Thompson, chief of detectives, said the Representative would be placed under "mental observation." He was apprehended at the Naval Hospital, while plainclothes men patrolled near the White House to take him in custody should he show up there again.

Officials decided on the arrest while Zioncheck was driving around the city looking for his missing bride.

PRESIDENT IS GIVEN GIFT OF BEER BOTTLES
Washington, June 1 (AP)—Dressed in an old sweater and wrinkled trousers, Representative Zioncheck of Washington paid calls early today at the White House executive offices and the office of the district attorney.

He left a brief case containing empty beer bottles and a case of moth balls at the executive offices, saying these were "for the president."

District Attorney Leslie Garnett said Zioncheck asked him to indict some public officials who might know where his missing bride could be found.

No one made public her exact whereabouts. Lucius C. Q. Lamar, Zioncheck's attorney, said she was staying with friends.

She left the embattled Zioncheck apartment Saturday.

Zioncheck Arrest Ordered
Washington, June 1 (AP)—District of Columbia officials ordered the arrest of Representative Zioncheck of Washington state "on sight" today after the legislator had visited the White House executive offices twice in an effort to see the President. The representative, who has had repeated tangles with the police in recent days, was driving about in his automobile seeking to find his missing bride. Her whereabouts was unknown.

Trek to Cleveland.
Washington, June 1 (AP)—Republican leaders started the trek to Cleveland today amid increased activity by backers of men who next week will make final bids to become the party's standard bearer in the fall election. A threat of a third party collapsed when a Chicago conference sponsored by Farmer-Laborists defeated a motion to call an organizing convention not later than September 5.

C. R. McCormick Critical.
Chicago, June 1 (AP)—Cyrus Hall McCormick, 77, retired head of the International Harvester Company, was critically ill today at his home in suburban Lake Forest. Dr. Joseph H. Caine said McCormick had been placed under an oxygen tent.

At The Theatres

Today
Broadway: "Under Two Flags." Quaid's sentimental little tale of the French Foreign Legion grows to monstrous proportions in the screen play at the Broadway, thanks to the directorial genius of the capable Frank Lloyd and a superlative cast of players which include Ronald Colman, Claudette Colbert, Victor McLaglen, Rosalind Russell, Nigel Bruce, Gregory Ratoff, Onslow Stephens and Herbert Mundin. A little drama of the African exploits of the famed Legionnaires, it tells of a girl who is the Legion's mascot and her subsequent sacrifice to love of country. The desert shots constitute the most compelling part of the show and the battle scenes are also done on the grand scale. Because of the scope of the picture, the players are relegated to minor roles and they move their tiny way through the vivid desert panorama. The picture is pure romance and should prove entertaining to almost any type of audience.

Kingston: "Times Square Play-boy" and "Murder on the Bridge Path." The metropolitan scene gets a good play in "Times Square Play-boy" as it tells the story of a young man who goes to the city to help out his best friend and manages to mess everything up in fine style. The humor is excellent and the entire show is an engaging affair. Warren William, June Travis, Barton MacLane, Gene Lockhart and Dick Purcell are featured. "Murder on the Bridge Path" brings James Gleason and Helen Broderick together for the first time as a couple of humorous detectives who have their hands full tracing down the reasons for a couple of murders, one of which takes place on a bridge path. Much of the action centers around a spooky old mansion and the show is a blend of laughs and terror. The supporting cast includes Louise Latimer, John Arledge, Sheila Terry, Leslie Fenton and John Carroll.

Orpheum: "The Country Doctor." Here's a simple, appealing story with the wealthy Dionne Quintuplets as the main attraction. The play tells of their birth and the subsequent events leading up to that momentous moment. It is one of the year's distinctly different pictures with a fine cast and careful direction all working hard in a story which has a definite appeal to young and old. Jean Harsholt contributes a noteworthy performance and he is ably assisted by June Lang, Slim Summerville and Michael Whelan.

Tomorrow.
Kingston: "Absolute Quiet" and "Champs-Élysées." Lionel Atwill, Raymond Walburn, Stuart Erwin, Irene Harvey, Ann Loring and Louis Hayward all the mainstays in this Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer "quickie" that steers its way through a lot of needless excitement during the course of events. There are many moments of humor and the anxiety runs high through most of the film. "Champs-Élysées" is one of those murder mysteries that have a tendency to take place aboard a luxury liner in mid-ocean. Billed by its producers as a daring romance of great excitement and violence, the story is in reality an oftentimes ponderous assortment of confusions and perplexities. The cast offers Paul Cavannaugh, Helen Wood, Thomas Beck, Noel Madison, Montagu Love and Miana Gombell. James Tinnling directed.

Orpheum: Same.

To eat salt with an Arab indicates to him the same responsibility of hospitality that we feel toward anyone who breaks bread with us.

Blame Puncture on Street
Dear Sir:
Through the medium of your column may I take the opportunity of expressing my deep disgust at the condition of most of Kingston's streets. Although it has not been a pleasure to ride over our "rocky roads," I have not complained because my car has suffered no damage.

Today, however, the situation is reversed as can be understood by the fact that while driving over Mary's avenue, the rear tire of my car was punctured by a sharp stone which cut a V in the tire and ruined the tube. I was forced to buy a new tire and tube at once because both were beyond repair. If some of the sharp stones were removed from that street and gravel substituted that unfortunate puncture would have never occurred. This incident is true and can be proved. It certainly is regrettable that we can't drive over the streets of this fair city without running tires. If fewer of the projects were started and more spent on the above "accident" would have not happened. Thank you for the space. Yours truly,
DOROTHY HILLIS,

Local Teams Active Over Week-End; Colonials Lose to Hyde Park, 3-2, Berardi's Win, Hurons Take Double

Hyde Park defeated the Kingston Colonials at Hyde Park by the close count of 3-2 on Memorial Day afternoon.

The game was featured by the brilliant pitchers' duel between Shackett of Kingston and Velle of Hyde Park. Velle held the locals scoreless after the opening inning, and gave but two hits, both singles by C. Tiano. Shackett allowed the winners but four well scattered blows.

J. Brennan featured the game with two sensational, one-handed catches in center field. Kraayenbrink, Rogers, Plass and Allquist of Hyde Park led the attack with a hit apiece.

The two teams have been booked for a return game in the near future.

Berardi A. C. Wins

By tying the count in the ninth and scoring three runs in the extra inning, the Berardi A. C. nosed out the Napanoch Chevrolet Saturday afternoon at Napanoch by 8-7.

The victors tied up the score in the ninth after trailing by two runs from the sixth frame.

Cullen was on the mound for the winners and allowed 11 hits in nine innings. A. Celuch finished the game.

Hurons Take Double

The Huron Indians put on some speed and enjoyed a twin victory over the week-end. On Saturday afternoon they took the measure of the Baumville Independents of Newburgh, 4-5. The next day they drubbed the Colonials, 6-3. Both games were played on the Indians' home grounds at Stone Ridge.

The Newburgh aggregation came up the river with several city league stars in their lineup and were prepared to win. Cragan, the Indian hurler, however, allowed but eight scattered hits and struck out 11. The victors took the lead at 4-2 in the first frame. The game was scoreless from the first to the sixth when the Independents tied up the count with a brace of runs. In the seventh the visitors took the lead when Kish scored the losers' final run.

The Hurons started off in the eighth with Kelder's single. Regan sacrificed and Kelder scored on a hit by Arlington. Heing the count, Neff walked and Rask got a fielder's choice. Cragan walked and Arlington was caught off third. Dunbar's walk put New across with the winning run.

On Sunday afternoon the Indians came through with their second win when they took the measure of the Colonials, 6-3.

Hornbeck was toiling the slab for the Hurons and allowed but six hits, striking out eight men. The Pioneers scored one run in the first and two more in the fifth to take a commanding lead. In the closing innings the Hurons staged a rally that put the losers back on their heels. Starting in the sixth they pushed across a run and added five more in the next two frames to clinch the game.

Brewers Drop Two

Starting an eighth inning rally Saturday afternoon, the Chichester nine defeated the Stanton Brewers by the tune of 6-0.

There was no scoring up to the last of the eighth when the victors started their rally. Four hits in rapid succession aided by two errors sent across the winning runs.

R. Grant led the attack for the winners with a two and a three base hit, driving in four runs.

On Sunday the Brewers lost to the Hunter club by 9-4.

But Zoller, the Stanton hurler, was hit by a pitched ball and was forced to leave the game. Ben Tofel did the relief work.

Grünenwald's Divide

After losing a ten inning battle to Hedricks on Memorial Day by a 7 to 5 score, Grünenwald's Home Leaders pounded out an 11 to 1 victory over Modena at that place Sunday afternoon, to gain an even split in the week-end clashes.

Leo Komosa was too much for the bakers in the Saturday game. He gave up six hits and issued a grand total of eight passes, but was effective in the pinches. In fact, there were too many Komosa's in the game. For it was Leo's brother, Phil, who broke up the game in the extra inning with a single after Leo had doubled to start the inning.

Jack Dodge started the game for the Home Leaders but retired in the eighth inning and Ky Embree finished.

Embree rapped a double and single and Wenzel two singles to lead the bakers' attack, while Berardi and the two Komosa brothers had a pair of hits each.

In Sunday's game, the doughboys unleashed a 13 hit bombardment on Philtride, Modena elbow, and won handily.

Eddie Scherer and Joe Mahar tossed them over for the Home Leaders and the home club solved their offerings for only two hits and a lone run.

Tommy Lamb collected a walk and three doubles in five trips to the plate, and "Curley" Scherer, Hamley and Gadd each had two hits.

Don Kiley and Herb Van Dusen, who were injured in the game with Hedricks last Thursday, were in uniform and played the final inning, both of them getting a hit in their one chance at the bat.

Mother Goose Theory Applied

The old Mother Goose method of handling stray sheep applies to stray rules, also. It would seem from an occurrence in Scranton, Pa., "Leave them alone and they'll come home," stating their tale behind them, quoted an official of a coal company, when notified by an amateur "Buffalo Bill" that he was examining a crowd to round up the 12 moles who had wandered from the company's yard.

Some moles, the rules came home after receiving temporary unfamiliarity to them, straggled their tails behind them in protest, and expected.

Berardi A. C. Shuts Out Glasco All Stars

The Berardi A. C. drubbed the Glasco All Stars in a City League game on Friday night by the tune of 12-0. "Spot" Cullen registered the first shut out of the current season when he allowed the losers only three hits and no runs. He gave no walks and fanned three.

The Berardi garnered five hits and knocked two All Star hurlers out of the box.

The winners opened strong in the first with a barrage of hits scoring four runs. Things calmed a bit until the fourth when the boys cut loose again for a tally of seven more runs. Adding another in the sixth the game went on record as one of the wildest yet played this season.

Maroon and White Scores 10-5 Win Over Newburgh Nine In DUSO Game

The Maroon and White ball tossers took one more step toward the DUSO Championship last Friday afternoon at Recreation Park, Newburgh, when they defeated the strong downriver outfit by the score of 10-5.

Charlie Bock was on the mound for Kingston. He held the powerful Newburgh batsmen to seven hits while fanning nine. Jack Hunter was invisible during the first four innings, allowing but two singles, both of which were gathered in the first inning. The fifth stanza had an entirely different aspect with Hunter being belted for seven hits, including a pair of homers resulting in eight runs. Hunter succeeded in striking out 12 during the game and outside of the fifth inning turned in a commendable performance from the mound.

Some heavy hitting featured in this important game with three home runs. Tommy Mainer and Ad Beckwith connected for Kingston and Lefty Burkowski for Newburgh. Each of the four sackers were belted with a man on the bases.

Chapple Van Duzee took batting honors for the day by connecting safely three times in five trips. Chapple played his usual fine game at shortstop. In the fifth inning with the bases loaded Chapple slapped a sharp single to right field, starting Kingston's rally by scoring two runs. Later in the ninth he banged out another single and continued by stealing second, third and home for three clean stolen bases. Charlie Bock pulled another unusual event by hitting safely twice in as many times at bat in the fifth inning as well as scoring a pair of runs. Haren and Bickard featured for Newburgh with two hits apiece, including a double and a single.

Origin of the Phrase "Perfidious Albion"

The phrase in its French form, "Albion Perfidie," is attributed to Napoleon, particularly when he found that the British intended to treat him as a prisoner rather than a guest on the Belle-Isle. The expression was very old at that time, however, and is a relic of the centuries of war and rivalry between France and Britain. Thus a French writer in 1558, giving a description of Great Britain, stated: "One may say of the English that in war they are not strong and in peace they are not faithful."

Another French writer, Misson, in his "Travels," published in 1738, says: "I cannot imagine what could occasion the notion I have frequently observed in France that the English were treacherous. It is certainly great injustice to reckon treachery among the vices familiar to the English."

There is another reference to alleged English perfidy in a Latin couplet said to have been composed by Philip of Valois on the occasion of Edward III's invasion of France in the fourteenth century. The name "Albion," of course, is the ancient name of Great Britain.

U. S.-BRITISH GLOBE AIR LINE DRAFTED

Route From Hawaii to New Zealand Is New Link.

Washington—Plans to forge the final link in the British-American globe girdling air routes will be drafted when federal aviation experts return from an inspection tour of the South Pacific.

After nearly three months of surveying potential emergency landing terminals, studies of weather conditions and wind trends on the southernmost American possessions in the Pacific, Navy and Commerce department representatives are expected to bring plans to make the projected Honolulu to New Zealand air service a reality.

Already preparations to provide emergency landing facilities are under way on Jarvis, Baker and Howland islands, about midway in the 4,000-mile stretch from Honolulu to Auckland. Additional provisions are planned at Klagman Reef and Pago Pago.

The tentative plans, drafted into an agreement signed by the New Zealand government and Pan-American Airways, provide for service between Honolulu and Auckland at least twice a month, and not more than two flights a week. At Honolulu the line would connect with regularly scheduled service between San Francisco and the Orient.

The agreement specifies service must be begun before the end of this year and must be maintained ten years.

With a naval base in operation at Pago Pago, federal aviation experts see little difficulty in establishing emergency landing facilities at the other "stepping stones."

Lloyds Insures Fish in Two English Rivers

London—Trout in the Rother and Dudwell rivers, near Burwash, Sussex, have been insured by Lloyds.

The policy, written because of the possibility of injury from chemicals used in the "descaling" of a pipe line between the rivers and a reservoir, is the most recent "freak" one issued here.

Not long ago an American was insured against being converted by the eloquence and emotions of a woman evangelist who traveled on the same liner with him from New York to England.

A Birmingham radio company took out a $500,000 policy on one of its experts.

The management of a London theater, after a chorus girl had fallen and broken a tooth, insured the teeth of all its chorus girls for $50,000.

Lester Tremayne, English radio dramatist in America, wanted a policy in insuring him against loss of his voice, change of its tone, and "distortion of his native accents by the dialects of the American Midwest."

Even the Loch Ness monster has been the subject of an insurance policy. Bertram Mills, circus owner, was protected against the monster's being caught and delivered alive to his circus. Mills had offered $100,000 to anyone who could accomplish this feat.

Snakes Rid Isle of Rats; Duty Done, They Vanish

Melbourne.—Thursday Island, off the Cape York finger of northeastern Australia, until recently was a tropical, palm-fringed spot on the map "where every prospect pleases and only rats are vile."

In fact, the rats were a perfect pest, especially to the shipping company which owns the wharf and its store. Cats were taken on the staff and paid 84 cents a week in cat's-meat currency. They did almost Hamelin service, but not quite.

Then two large carpet snakes were appointed with board lodging and other emoluments. By day they slept in the rafters of the store; by night they worked.

In an incredibly short time every rat disappeared. So, now, have the snakes. No one knows where, but Thursday Island has deleted the "only" from its pleasing prospects.

Maya Pottery Collection Discovered in Guatemala

Washington.—Dr. A. V. Kidder, archeologist of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, reported the discovery of "the most remarkable collection" of Maya pottery in Guatemala which has ever been found.

Dr. Kidder previously had announced the discovery of a temple composed of three pyramids, which were well preserved, containing some relics.

Opening of a second tomb within the pyramids disclosed the pottery. "There are many fine vessels, some of which are covered with a stucco coating and decorated with paintings of the Maya gods," he reported. "There is also a magnificent altar."

Loose Nickel and Temper; Costs $10

Boston.—Losing a nickel—and his temper—cost William Langan, Melrose, $10 to court. Langan tried to get a number from a friend street subway pay station booth. He failed. He also failed to get back the nickel. He turned for five minutes, then ripped out the telephone receiver and handed it to Patrolman Scanlon who had investigated the complaint. Langan paid the $10 to court.

State Aid Funds.

Albany, N. Y., June 1 (P)—State Agriculture Commissioner Peter G. Tom Eyck has forwarded $250,000 in state aid funds to 58 towns and county fair associations. The fund is appropriated by law to reimburse the societies for premiums paid for the promotion of agriculture and of domestic arts.

Honored at Recital By His Children

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dunbar who were so fortunate as to be the guests of the Dunbar family on Sunday afternoon, the occasion of Mr. Dunbar's birthday, are wishing that he had birthdays more often.

The happy occasion was honored by a recital by Violet, Eva and James Dunbar, assisted by Mrs. Florence W. Cubberly, their teacher, with Harry Elmendorf at the piano.

The recital took place in "The Play-House" with its beautiful view of the Catskills and the intervening meadow and wood land, an ideal setting in its simplicity and homeliness, for such an event.

The program opened with a string quartet, The Allegro from "Klein-enacht" of Mozart's played admirably and in true Mozartian spirit by Violet Dunbar, first violin; Eva Dunbar, second violin; James Dunbar, cello; and Mrs. Cubberly, viola.

A "Gavotte" by Hans Sitt was played very nicely and quite as a gavotte should be played by Eva, with Mr. Elmendorf accompanying her at the piano.

The next number was a "Rondo" by Schubert for two violins and piano, played by Violet Dunbar and Mrs. Cubberly, violinists, and Mr. Elmendorf, pianist. It was such a lovely number and so well played that Mr. Dunbar asked that it be played again in acknowledgment of the applause. It was entirely a surprise to him and fully enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Dunbar then sang for the friends two songs by Schumann. "Er der herrliche von Allen" and "Mondnacht" by the same composer. Mr. Elmendorf accompanying her. The first song was beautiful and it seemed that Mrs. Dunbar's voice and artistic interpretation of the exquisite "Mondnacht" were especially lovely, thrilling the little group of music lovers. Her last song was "The Nut Tree," one of the group of Mother Goose songs by Mr. Halle that had great charm and withal wistfulness.

Another trio that was greatly enjoyed was a Russian song by Glinka.

arranged for violin, viola and piano by Edward Herrmann. It was played by Violet Dunbar, violin; Mrs. Cubberly, viola, and Mr. Elmendorf, piano.

One of the outstanding numbers was a quintet performance of the Presto movement from Haydn's Symphony, opus No. 32, played by Eva Dunbar, first violin; Violet Dunbar, second violin; Mrs. Cubberly, viola; James Dunbar, cello; Harry Elmendorf, piano.

Little Eva, who had been using a full-sized violin for practice but a very short time, made an admirable "first violin," and this symphonic number, like all the other selections impressed everyone with the excellence of the tonality of the instruments and the ensemble, but best of all—having the two foregoing—the interpretation of the composer's thought.

Mrs. Cubberly announced that the final number held a "joker" in that she would not announce the title but would allow the audience to guess what it was. It proved to be a gay and spirited arrangement of "Turkey in the Straw," arranged by Mrs. Cubberly, played merrily by the entire group of musicians.

After the program and congratulations for both Mr. Dunbar and the talented young musicians and their teacher, delicious refreshments were served by the young people.

The whole delightful affair made the guests feel as though they had been translated to the days of the great composers when just such gatherings were of frequent occurrence.
